

Dear FCC,

The media ownership limits should be regulated. The relaxing of the ownership limits has allowed big business to operate in the profit interest as opposed to the public interest. Simple services that radio once provide is being eliminated. Media was better off when there was more individuals competing against each others as opposed to a few giant corporations competing. Local radio is being dominated by syndication. The worst thing in the world to me is when I hear a radio announcer say, its twenty minutes after the hour. WHAT HOUR? Blind people will never know the time of day. And news and public affairs are gone. All in the name of profit.

Regulation of the media is needed to insure that the broadcasters will broadcast information to the America. Democracy is at risk under the present state of media ownership rules. The select few that own the majority of the radio stations will only allow their agenda to be pushed on the radio. Absolute power corrupts absolutely. Where is another point of view. People need information to make informed decisions. And radio once provided information for people, now its all a bunch of propaganda that being put on the air and "this is supposed to be a democracy?"

Please do not deregulate the media ownership limits.
